Columbus Community Hospital Foundation

Toby Goc

FOUNDATION BOARD MEMBER

Toby Goc has only been on the Columbus Community Foundation board for a few months, and he's already feeling like he's made a difference.

Goc, originally from Columbus, is the project coordinator at RVW, Inc. He said he feels his job has prepared him well to serve on the foundation board.

"There are so many different aspects to my job that give me a broad range of experiences," he said.

Goc joined the foundation board in May and will serve a three-year term. He said he wanted to join to be part of the great community projects.

"As part of the health care community, the foundation's support of these projects is what makes our community a better place to live," he said.

So far, Goc has enjoyed his time on the foundation board. He said the people, the camaraderie and the willingness of everyone to help has been great. Above all, he has learned how important the foundation is to the hospital and the community as a whole.

"The foundation allows the hospital to fund projects that would not have happened otherwise," he said. "The foundation allows the hospital to provide better services, which in turn provides the quality of life our community as a whole deserves."

The foundation offers various projects that community members can select when they choose to support it. Every donation matters, which is why the foundation is pleased to work with donors of all levels.

In Goc's free time, you will find him hanging out with his family or following his kids in their activities.
