

PHYSICIAN SPOTLIGHT

Bryce Lund, MD

NEPHROLOGY CARE, LLC
COLUMBUS, NE

As a child, Bryce Lund, MD, watched “Air Wolf” and other helicopter-related TV shows and decided he wanted to be a helicopter pilot. While those plans never came to pass, Lund found another, equally exciting career as a doctor at his own practice: Nephrology Care, LLC, in Columbus, Nebraska.

At his practice, Lund cares for people who have kidney disease and high blood pressure, managing their dialysis treatment and sometimes helping them prepare for a kidney transplant. “Early in my training, I had family members with kidney disease that influenced my choice of practice,” he said. “I still enjoy helping individuals with these difficulties.”

Since 2015, Lund has been on staff at Columbus Community Hospital, serving as one of the main nephrologists called upon when patients have kidney problems.

When he’s not working, Lund enjoys water sports and travel, playing hockey, and spending time with his wife, family and friends.

If he could travel anywhere, he says, he would go to New Zealand, and if he could eat just one thing for the rest of his life, he’d be satisfied with toast and jelly.

As for the most important piece of advice he has received as a doctor: “If you find a thermometer in your shirt pocket, you should not go looking for your pen.”

“

I had family members with kidney disease that influenced my choice of practice. I still enjoy helping individuals with these difficulties.

”

Visit columbushosp.org to view our online physician directory, which can give you more information about the medical staff members who serve our community.