Burbach named office manager at Occupational Health Services

For Immediate Release

(COLUMBUS, Neb.) – Columbus Community Hospital welcomes Becky Burbach as the new office manager at Occupational Health Services. She began working at the department in May.

“Becky is an excellent addition to the OHS team,” said Danielle Frewing, director of OHS. “She has great leadership qualities, is eager to learn and has a willingness to go above and beyond her day-to-day responsibilities.”

Burbach has more than 15 years of experience in health care, previously working as a physical therapist assistant and clinic manager.

“I am passionate about helping others and have a caring heart by nature,” Burbach said. “I care how others feel and want to make their lives better.”

Since 1994, OHS has worked with area businesses to help them prevent and treat injuries in the workplace. More than 900 companies partner with OHS to provide comprehensive and specific programs that benefit the health and safety of their employees.

OHS offers substance abuse screening, on-site nursing, immunizations, wellness screening, OSHA safety compliance consultation and on-site safety education events.

The program also provides public education opportunities to the community, including the Complete Health Improvement Program, Walk with a Doc and lunch and learn seminars at the hospital.

As the office manager, Burbach processes billing, logs drug and alcohol screening results and communicates with companies about services their employees need.

“Becky is helping provide programs and services to the community and surrounding area with the commitment to quality OHS is known for,” said Amy Blaser, vice president of physician relations and business development at CCH.

Burbach and her husband, Matt, have two children, Kallie, 5, and Ryder, 2. The family enjoys camping, golfing, swimming, horse riding and fishing.
