(COLUMBUS, Neb.) – Do you remember house calls when your family physician would bring health care directly into your home?

Though house calls may not be standard practice today, Columbus Community Hospital is still working to bring the latest in health care information right to people's doorsteps. That's why CCH offers Housecall, a complimentary, in-home delivery, quarterly newsletter.

Housecall is designed to give people the latest health care information and each edition includes:

- Updates on new hospital programs and services
- Features on new physicians or health care providers
- Interviews with local health experts
- Health and wellness tips
- Profiles of community members, and
- Much more

To register to receive the CCH Housecall newsletter or to add a friend or family member to the Housecall mailing list, email Mandy Lauck, CCH marketing and community benefit specialist, at mrlauck@columbushosp.org.
