Learn about colon cancer and the importance of early detection

For Immediate Release

(COLUMBUS, Neb.) – According to the American Cancer Society, colon cancer is the third most common cancer diagnosed in the United States. Statistics show that 1 in 23 people are at risk for the disease.

Columbus Community Hospital wants to help community members learn more about colon cancer by offering a free virtual Lunch & Learn, “Colon Cancer: Get the Inside Story.” The event takes place at noon on Monday, Oct. 4, 2021. It will feature panelist Dr. Jeremy Albin, a general surgeon at Columbus General Surgery.

Dr. Albin will discuss what can be done to lower the risk for colon cancer. He will also present information on the importance of early detection and options available for treatment.

Following the presentation, Albin will answer questions. A link to the Zoom event is available at www.columbushosp.org.
